

Acknowledgement

The author is greatly indebted to the many government departments, agencies, and individuals who have rendered their kind assistance during the course of the study.

In particular, the author wishes to thank the Census and Statistics Department for granting access to the 1996 Population By-census data set, The Hong Kong Federation of Youth Groups for providing results of their numerous youth studies in diskette format, and The Family Planning Association of Hong Kong for supplying useful information from their 1996 Sexuality Study before the results are formally published.

Special thanks to Miss Pun Shuk-han for collecting relevant materials and writing the SAS programme, and a big thank you to Mr. Kenneth Ng and Mr. Gary Wong of the Government Secretariat, Home Affairs Branch for their generous support.
